I am using the following query but it returns an empty set. I am trying to query for a document with this structure: { "id": "example", "stringProp": "stringValue", "mapProp": { "a": "b", "c": "d" } } How I currently query for this document: var q = firebase.firestore().collection('doc').where('stringProp', '==', 'stringValue'); return q.get().then(function (data) { return data.docs; }); The initial problem is that I want to pull the document into a variable rather than returning it immediately. I also tried var q = firebase.firestore().collection('doc').where('stringProp', '==', 'stringValue') .where('mapProp', '==', {'a': 'b'}).get(); return q.then(function (data) { return data.docs; }); This query doesn't match any documents... it is essentially this query in two steps. I am missing something simple. A: This is what I ended up with: firebase.firestore().collection('doc').where('stringProp', '==', 'stringValue')
